

To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Andre Mossi, who completed his internship at Corporación Dinant from June to end of July 2023.

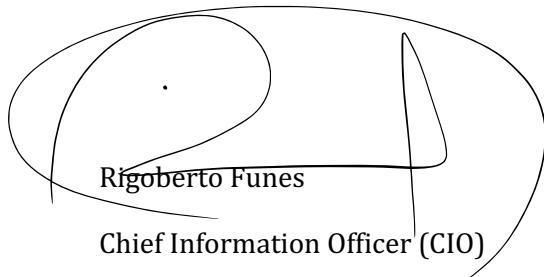

During his time with us, Andre worked on the automation of business processes using Oracle APEX. He supported the design and development of applications aimed at improving operational efficiency and reducing manual tasks across different areas of the organization.

Andre consistently demonstrated strong analytical capabilities, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills. He showed the ability to quickly understand business requirements and translate them into practical, well-structured technical solutions. His approach was methodical and focused on delivering value.

What stood out most was his proactive attitude and willingness to learn. He approached challenges with maturity, asked insightful questions, and collaborated effectively with team members. His contributions had a positive impact on the initiatives he supported.

Andre performed very well throughout his internship, and I am confident that he has the technical foundation, work ethic, and professional mindset to succeed in future roles.

Sincerely,

Rigoberto Funes
